Article Series of Pi Legal Consultancy Continues....

Pi Legal Consultancy continues to offer free legal and business guidance through the articulation of trending articles and papers. Our first article in this month is about The Application of Domestic Legal Standards in Citizenship Cases before Turkish Administrative Courts. The article provides the most updated information about the case-law of the administrative courts on citizenship rejection cases. In the particular judgment, analyzed in this article, Ankara Administrative Court delivers a cancellation judgment on the rejection of citizenship application on the grounds that neither the applicant nor the spouse had any ongoing criminal investigation or prosecution recorded in the UYAP judicial system, and the administration failed to present any concrete evidence supporting its claim regarding national security concerns. In light of these circumstances, the court concluded that the administrative decision rejecting the citizenship application lacked legal justification and was therefore unlawful.

News & Insights & Legal Alerts

Pi Legal Consultancy is also going on publishing legal alerts covering the most updated developments in Turkey. Our one of recent legal alerts covers a useful analysis of the Rent Determination Lawsuit Turkey. In this article, our Attorney Emre Fatih Özdil emphasizes that the rent determination lawsuit is a crucial legal tool that ensures rental income is aligned with market conditions, particularly in long-term tenancies. For foreign property investors in Türkiye, this lawsuit offers an effective mechanism to protect rental yields against inflation. However, managing the process correctly—including fulfilling the mediation requirement, timing the legal notices accurately, and preparing the correct documents—is of paramount importance. For this reason, it is highly recommended to carry out rent determination lawsuits alongside an experienced real estate attorney.
